“Calling a plumber is like going to the dentist,” Fred Morrow jokes. “You want a good one, but you don’t look forward to seeing him.” But if a backed-up drain means a visit from these affable professionals, how bad can it be?

Fred and his longtime associate and friend, David Alexander, who also has decades of plumbing experience, are pleased to announce their new partnership in Fred Morrow Plumbing. There’s no residential plumbing problem Fred, Dave and their skilled crews can’t fix. They do it all: repiping, sewers, drains, faucets, and the more demanding job of creating systems for new homes and remodels.

Fred and Dave will never try to upsell you. “Our philosophy is we want you to call us back. We’re in it for the long run,” says Fred. It may sound like a sales pitch until you consider that Fred is a fourth-generation plumber and Dave grew up in his father’s plumbing business.

The key to Fred and Dave’s success is simple. “We follow three basic principles: show up on time, do what you say you’re going to do and follow through.”

I called in Fred Morrow to get a second opinion about what we thought was a plugged pipe. Fred properly analyzed the situation and probably saved me $10,000 or more. The work was completed beautifully, and we haven’t had a problem since. They were neat, clean, prompt, courteous and smelled good. I give them five stars.

I called Fred Morrow after reading about his company in N2N. He sent two very fine men and the job was done efficiently and cleanly without fuss or need for my involvement. I am an old man, and I move with difficulty. I was impressed by their dignity and kindness in making the whole exercise a pleasant one. I will certainly call again if I need help!
